STANTON — Floyd County Sheriff John K. Blackburn is scheduled to appear in Powell County District Court April 9 for arraignment after being arrested in Powell County Sunday night on a charge of driving under the influence.

Blackburn, 62, of 605 Meade Drive in Prestonsburg, is charged with first-offense operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs/etc. and was in a Chevrolet Tahoe registered to the sheriff's office at the time of his arrest.

The Floyd County Clerk's Office confirmed Monday that the plate listed for the vehicle is registered to the sheriff's office and is part of the sheriff's fleet.

Blackburn is currently serving as the 2013 president of the Kentucky Sheriff's Association.

MCDOWELL — One man is dead and two other people were injured Tuesday night, March 12, after an apparent family visit took a tragic turn.

Famer Halbert, 54, was reportedly in his bed at the time he was shot, according to Kentucky State Police in Pikeville.

The KSP responded to a call of a shooting in the McDowell community of Floyd County. Upon their arrival, officers found two victims — Famer Halbert and his wife, Lorene Halbert — inside the residence with gunshot wounds. Both Halberts were transported to McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, where Famer Halbert was later pronounced dead by Floyd County Coroner Greg Nelson.

Lorene Halbert, 50, was treated and released for a single gunshot wound, the release said.

Ronald Wright was located at Saint Joseph Hospital with gunshot wounds and was later transported to St. Mary's Medical Center in Huntington, W.Va.

A KSP press release said warrants have been obtained for Wright for one count of murder and one count of meth attempted murder.

Loretta Wright was transported and lodged in the Floyd County Detention Center after she was PAINTSVILLE — Johnson County Middle School claimed its 10th state Governor's Cup title Monday, while the school's quick recall team and a JCMS student were first in their respective contests at the state academic meet.

JCMS placed first overall in the three-day academic event, with Meyzeek Middle School finishing second. Russell and Campbell County middle schools placed third and fourth, respectively.

The JCMS quick recall team finished first in its event, and JCMS student Andrew Chapman placed first in the individual language arts category.

Also in language arts, Carrie Jo Cecil of Louisa Middle School finished fifth, while JCMS students Kenzi Butcher and Leah Blair placed sixth and seventh, respectively.

In quick recall, the JCMS team finished second, while the Paintsville team placed third.

In social studies, JCMS student Dillon Conley placed fourth, Paintsville student Jed Riego finished sixth and JCMS student Tyler Ratliff placed eighth.

JCMS student Lauren Endicott was eighth in mathematics.

In the high school division, Johnson Central High School placed sixth in future problem solving team competition.

Drug abuse forum slated

PAINTSVILLE — Symposia to educate medical providers about prescription drug abuse and diversion will be conducted at four locations across Kentucky this spring, including Paintsville.

The free Paintsville "Kentucky Medical Communities UNITED" forum is set for April 27 at the Ramada. Other forums, presented by the Appalachian Regional Commission, Kentucky Office of Drug Control Policy, and Operation UNITE, will be held in Morehead (April 13), Bowling Green (May 11) and Manchester (June 8).

Presenters at each location will be C. Loyd Vest II, general counsel for the Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure; Dr. Gregory Jones, medical director for the Kentucky Physicians Health Foundation; and David Hopkins, KASPER Program manager within the Office of the Inspector General of Kentucky.

Among topics to be discussed are the new key requirements imposed by the 2012 Kentucky General Assembly (House Bill 1) and amendments enacted this year, identification of drug abuse and dependence in patients, assessing patients for addiction risk, explaining the KASPER (Kentucky All-Schedule Prescription Electronic Reporting) system, and evaluating the risks versus rewards of opioid

3 charged with making meth

by Lilly Adkins
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

PAINTSVILLE — Three men were arrested Thursday in Johnson County on charges involving a mobile methamphetamine lab and are scheduled for a preliminary hearing in Johnson District Court at 11 a.m. today (Wednesday).

Lucas Moore, 26, of Lowmansville, Donnis Skaggs, 32, of Paintsville, and Jason Owens, 31, of Swamp Branch are charged with first-degree manufacturing methamphetamine and unlawful possession of meth precursors.

Moore was additionally served with an indictment warrant for first-degree manufacturing methamphetamine, persistent felony offender and possession of drug paraphernalia and Owens was additionally served with warrants for second-degree burglary and third offense operating a motor vehicle while under the influence.

According to a press release issued by the Johnson County Sheriff's Office, deputy Byron Fairchild and Kentucky State Police trooper Dustin Thompson were en route to a residence at 205 Castle Fork in Lowmansville to attempt to serve the indictment warrant on Moore. When they arrived at the residence, they saw Moore along with Skaggs and Owens sitting inside a 1996 white Chevrolet Lumina, and they "appeared to be smoking methamphetamine," the release said.

Upon further inspection of the vehicle, the officers discovered an active "mobile" meth lab as well as the finished product, the release said.

Moore, Skaggs and Owens were taken into custody and transported to the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center in Johnson County.

The sheriff's office said in its press release that anyone with knowledge of any illegal activity is advised to call the Johnson County Sheriff's Office at 789-3411. Callers can remain anonymous.

Jobless rates up in FIVCO, Big Sandy districts

by Tony Fyffe
BSN MANAGING EDITOR

FRANKFORT — The new year brought higher unemployment rates in the FIVCO and Big Sandy area development districts, according to the latest state statistics.

The FIVCO district's jobless rate rose from 9 percent in December 2012 to 10 percent in January, while the Big Sandy ADD's rate increased from 11.3 percent to 12 percent during the same period.

Carter County recorded the FIVCO ADD's highest rate in January at 12.7 percent, while Boyd County had the lowest at 8.4 percent.

Other FIVCO rates were 8.8 percent in Greenup County, 11.5 percent in Lawrence County and 12.5 percent in Elliott County.

The Big Sandy district's highest rate in January was 18.8 percent in Magoffin County, which also was the state's highest rate. The ADD's lowest rate was 10.7 percent in Johnson County.

Other rates in the Big Sandy ADD were 11.2 percent in Pike County, 11.3 percent in Martin County and 12.6 percent in Floyd County.

ly Rice with the Stanton City Police Department received a call from Powell County dispatch of a Tahoe driving recklessly on the Mountain Parkway.

Rice said in the report that he was advised the caller stated he was behind the vehicle and was continuing to follow him.

"I observed the vehicle around the 25 mile marker (EB Mountain Parkway), and observed the vehicle crossing the right fog line, nearly striking the guardrail, returning to the east bound lane and then over the center line several times," Rice said in the report. "After stopping the vehicle I spoke with the operator. He seemed to sneak slowly had blood shot eyes and smelled the odor of an alcoholic beverage.”

The arrest report said that Blackburn "insisted he had only drank water and was weaving because of talking on his cell phone."

Rice said in the report that he asked Blackburn to exit the vehicle and that Blackburn stated he had medical reasons as to why he was unable to perform a balancing test, but "HGN-6 clues and PBT" were given.

Blackburn reportedly registered .202 on a Breathalyzer test.

"The operator finally stated that he was coming from a casino and had consumed alcoholic beverages earlier in the day," the arrest report said.

After being taken into custody, Blackburn was transported to the Powell County Detention Center, where he was released on a $2,500 surety bond.

A jail employee said "a man was waiting to get him out (of jail) before I got to work."

The Big Sandy News contacted the Floyd County Sheriff's Office in an attempt to reach Blackburn for comment, but he wasn't in his office and didn't return phone calls.

As president of the sheriff's association, Blackburn is featured on the cover of the group's 2012 magazine and is quoted as saying, "I will execute the duties of this office with great honor and pride by utilizing all of my assets and resources to ensure that no sheriff stands alone."

The statewide unemployment rate rose from 7.9 percent in December to 8.7 percent in January.

Woodford County recorded the lowest jobless rate at 5.9 percent. It was followed by Fayette County, 6.5 percent; Oldham County, 6.6 percent; Shelby County, 6.7 percent; Madison County, 7 percent; Franklin County, 7.1 percent; Daviess and Scott counties, 7.2 percent each; and Anderson, Hancock and Union counties, 7.3 percent each.

Behind Magoffin County with the state's second highest rate was Letcher County at 16.9 percent. It was followed by Leslie County, 16.4 percent; Harlan County, 15.8 percent; Fulton County, 15.2 percent; Jackson and Knott counties, 15.1 percent each; Bell County 14.7 percent; Menifee County, 14.6 percent; and McCreary County, 14.4 percent.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure trends rather than actually to count people working. Civilian labor force statistics include non-military workers and unemployed Kentuckians who are actively seeking work. They do not include unemployed Kentuckians who have not looked for employment within the past four weeks.

The statistics are not seasonally adjusted to allow for comparisons between United States, state and county figures.

arrested and charged with complicity to murder.

Loretta Wright is reportedly Lorene Halbert's sister, and the Halberts' grandchildren were reportedly in the home at the time of the shootings.

According to the criminal complaint, Ronald Wright shot Lorene Halbert and a struggle began over the firearm, during which Ronald Wright was also shot.

Loretta Wright gained control of the weapon and pointed it at Lorene Halbert, who advised officers that she “begged Loretta (her sister) not to shoot her.”

Loretta Wright pleaded not guilty during her arraignment Wednesday morning, March 13, in Floyd County District Court. Her bond was set at $500,000 cash.

The case is under investigation by KSP Det. Jason Dials.

Paintsville native gets Lexington post

BSN Staff Report

LEXINGTON — A Paintsville native is the new director of the Division of Engineering for Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government.

Brad Frazier, who was previously a traffic engineering manager in the division, started his new position Dec. 17, 2012.

Frazier told the Lexington Herald-Leader that he "always had an interest in being a director at the Urban County Government" and that he applied for the job when former director Marwan Rayan left the position.

Frazier is a 1988 graduate of Paintsville High School and a graduate of the University of Kentucky, where he received a bachelor of science and master of science in civil engineering. He began working for the Division of Traffic Engineering in Lexington in 1990, leaving in 2000 to accept a position with the Georgetown Planning Commission. He later became city engineer and public works director.

He returned to Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government in 2007 to become a manager in the Division of Traffic Engineering.

Frazier is the son of Stephen N. "Nick" and Carolyn

Frazier of Paintsville. He and his wife Rebecca have two daughters, Ashley and Sydney.

Telework job screening slated

INEZ — Kentucky Teleworks will host a telework job screening on Monday, March 27, in Inez to find workers for thousands of available work-from-home jobs with several well-known national companies, including DIRECTV, Amazon.com, T-Mobile, JPMorgan Chase and others.

The free event will take place from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at the Martin County Public Library, 180 East Main Street in Inez.

Applicants interested in being screened on-site for jobs should bring a current resume, valid identification card, and Social Security card. They must also have a distraction-free space for a home office with high-speed Internet access.

At the screening, Kentucky Teleworks will screen and accept applications for customer service, Information Technology (IT) support, and sales jobs with starting pay at $9 per hour and health benefits for full-time employees. Also available are at-home interviewing jobs that start at $8 per hour with the potential to earn up to $11.35 per hour.

Additionally, Kentucky Teleworks entered into an agreement with a national cable, broadband, and phone sales provider to fill 100 tele-sales positions. These jobs pay upwards of $9.55 per hour with full benefits, including commission and bonuses.

Currently, Kentucky Teleworks has agreements with six companies that seek to fill nearly 3,000 jobs.

Participants at the Inez job screening event will learn about telework job opportunities currently available in a variety of different fields, including data entry, medical transcription and coding, IT support, computer programming, tutoring and teaching, sales and management.

Participants will also learn how Kentucky Teleworks can assist and advise in their finding, applying for, and obtaining these jobs.

Warfield teacher recognized

FRANKFORT — Gov. Steve Beshear and the General Assembly on March 7 recognized and honored Kathy A. Kerr, one of the 268 Kentucky teachers to earn certification from the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards.

Kerr is a fifth-grade teacher at Warfield Elementary School in Martin County and is in her 23rd year of teaching.

Kerr attended a reception sponsored by the Kentucky Education Association at the Governors Mansion and then participated in a “Celebration on the Hill for Kentucky National Board Certified Teachers Class of 2012.” All of the new certified teachers convened in the Capital Rotunda for a group photo with the governor and legislators. State Rep. Hubert Collins of Wittensville, whose district includes Martin County, applauded Kerr for her “commitment to acquire the necessary skills to ably equip the youth of today with the academic tools to become the leaders of tomorrow.”

Kerr has received the highest professional credential that an educator can obtain within the teaching profession. Warfield Elementary principal Michael Marcum said he and the school staff are “very proud and honored to have a national board certified teacher” at their school and “also very proud to announce that Mrs. Kerr has been nominated for the 2013 National History Teacher of the Year Award due to her excellence in teaching.”

Letters to the editor

To The Editor:

Some concern has been raised over my use of actual area names in my recently published novel, “Everything Important Happens on a Hillside.” Please allow me to explain.

Although the names of the characters in the book are those of actual people from the towns of Pikeville, Prestonsburg, and Paintsville, the three towns I’ve lived in for most of my life, they are neither disguised satirical portraits of the actual people nor modeled after them. Characters in a book are sometimes hard to name because most names already have associative qualities that define the character at the onset, for instance a fictional name like Jack Bingham has to belong to an architect or an insurance agent, in no way can he be a country music star or politician. And names like Jill Randolph sounds phony, but lots of writers can’t do any better. In other words, the right name, especially in a novel, is a hard choice.

During the first draft of my novel, I used a woman’s first name that I had heard for many years, one that stuck in my mind. Although I had never seen the woman, I once spoke to her on the phone. And when I envisioned this certain character in the book, no other name but hers would fit, the character just had to have the name, Lillian Pearl. But after using this particular name it was easy to go on from there; each time a new character emerged I simply named him or her after someone I knew, a relative, a friend, a close acquaintance, just people whom I have known throughout my life, and for the most part, people whom I’m quite fond of. But the rule was that I had to be connected to them in some direct way.

Of course, in a work of fiction there has to be heroes and villains, but I tried to be non-judgmental about who would be who in the book; it was just that the name had to fit, and in no way directly reflect the character of the real person, not his or her situation in life. I was simply using that name for an imaginary character totally unrelated to the actual person. I did Google some of the names and found that some of them have as many as fifty matches throughout the world, and my own name, John Preston, is a dime a dozen, especially in Eastern Kentucky. In the end, I chose to do this for the simple ease and fun of it, in good faith with no mal intent, hoping that the people named would be pleased to be in a book, and of course, that it would help sell the books, at least area wide, thinking: when was the last time some of these people have sat down and read (according to nearly as early responses) a good entertaining and informative novel.

Though all in all, if anyone is offended shouldn’t it perhaps be the ones I left out of the book? But in hopes that my book may reach a wider readership, beyond the Big Sandy Valley (which it is beginning to do), all this will make no difference at all. See John H. Preston, author Facebook page, for further details.

who passed away
March 24, 2012.
Her 77th birthday is March 25, 2013, so
Happy Birthday, Mom!

Mom, it's been a year since you have been gone but it seems like yesterday...

I Miss You

I cried when you passed away,
I still cry today.
Although I loved you dearly
I couldn't make you stay.
Your golden heart stopped beating,
Hard-working hands at rest.
God broke my heart to prove to me
He only takes the best.

Sadly Missed By:
Your Daughters, Brenda O'Brian and Helen Huff, & Grandchildren and Great-Grandchildren

*We know you are in Heaven with Dad.
We love you very much.
You are always in our hearts forever.*

THANK YOU

The family of
Lloyd B. Young Jr.
would like to thank everyone that helped in any way during our time of sorrow...
The pallbearers, the ones who sent flowers, brought food, for all those who sang the wonderful songs, to Brother Joe Castle and Brother Roger Ross for the comforting message, and to Young Funeral Home for the courteous service.

—Sadly Missed by Family & Friends

Card of Thanks

The family of
Rowena Ruth Henson
would like to express their gratitude for all who sent food, flowers & cards and who attended the funeral.
Special thanks to the staff at J.J. Jordan Geriatric
Center, Brother Ric Frazier, Brother Rick May, Brother
Todd Henson, and Young Funeral Home.

God Bless All of You.

Our Deepest Appreciation

The family of
Rev. Marvin E. Salyers would like to thank everyone that sent flowers and brought food during our tremendous loss. The prayers from everyone are what still keep us going and we thank everyone for those special prayers at such a difficult time.
We would also like to thank all those who came and paid their respects to our daddy. He loved, and we love each of you. Special thanks to Bro. Dave Henderson, Bro. Noah Wilks and Bro. Gordon Crisp for officiating at Daddy's service. Thank you to the Myrtle Chapel Choir for their songs. A big thanks to the Smokey Valley Church for the dinner they hosted at our Aunt Gail and Uncle Truman's house after the graveside services. Our heartfelt thanks to Wilson Funeral Home and all of their staff for making our family part of yours.

5 tech habits every computer user needs to have

by Kim Komando

Kim Komando hosts the nation's largest talk radio show about consumer electronics, computers and the Internet.

Behavioral experts say that one of the best ways to drop a bad habit is to replace it with a new good habit. If you have a computer that constantly acts up, you probably need to develop a few good tech habits.

Don't worry. Giving up bad tech habits is a lot easier than trying to abstain from ice cream! These five good tech habits will save you money and make you much more productive.

Fix common computer problems yourself

Most computer problems aren't catastrophic and you can fix them yourself. Upgrading to fancier software or shopping around for a new computer will cost you time and money. Instead, see what you can do with the old mare.

Buying and installing extra RAM often fixes the dreaded Blue Screen of Death and other performance problems. Find out what kind of memory your computer takes with this free scanner. Installing new RAM is a breeze, really.

Cleaning out the clutter on your hard drive is another easy solution. Here, three free programs will do the trick. Grab PC Decrapifier to remove trial programs and bloatware in a snap, then open up Duplicate Cleaner and CCleaner to clear out duplicate files and fix errors in your Windows registry.

Don't fall for tech rip-offs

When you do have to buy a new computer or other piece of tech gear, watch out for the booby traps that lurk in the retail tech jungle. They'll turn you upside down and shake the money out of your pockets.

Extended warranties, for example, can add hundreds of dollars to the price of your purchase. They're usually bad investments, unless you're buying an expensive laptop that's vital to a clumsy student or a small business.

You'll also save money by buying extra RAM and hard-drive upgrades and installing them yourself instead of ordering them from the manufacturer.

Other rip-offs are buying expensive cables, getting the wrong GPS and picking the wrong cellular connection for your tablet.

Use hard to guess passwords

Far too many computer and gadget users don't bother to create passwords and leave their home wireless networks open for others to use. Or else they come up with passwords that are easy to hack, such as "password" and "123456."

They're just asking for trouble from hackers, scammers and maybe even the police. If you're neighbor uses your wireless network for something illegal, the authorities will question you first.

The trick to passwords is striking a balance between security and convenience. You want it strong and long enough to repel the bad guys. But you also don't want to spend 4 minutes tapping out a cryptic code every time you need to use it.

The best password is at least 8 characters long and contains a mix of letters, numbers and symbols. I have a nifty trick for creating unbreakable passwords that are also easy to remember.

Start by thinking of a phrase or a song lyric that has meaning for you. Then,

Screening reduces risk of cancer

PAINTSVILLE — Colorectal cancer most often affects those who are 50 or older, but did you know there's an effective way to reduce your risk? Have regular colorectal cancer screening tests beginning at age 50.

Of cancers that affect both men and women, colorectal cancer is the second leading cancer killer in the U.S. — but it doesn't have to be. If everybody aged 50 or older had regular screening tests, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that as many as 60 percent of deaths from colorectal cancer could be prevented.

March is National Colorectal Cancer Awareness Month, and Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center is "dedicated to raising awareness about the risk factors for the disease and what you can do to lower your risk," a press release from the hospital said.

Colorectal cancer affects people of all racial and ethnic groups, and is the third most common cancer for men and women. Although the exact cause of most colorectal cancers is unknown, some conditions may increase a person's risk of developing colorectal cancer, including:

- * Age. According to the American Cancer Society, more than nine out of 10 people diagnosed with colorectal cancer are at least 50 years old.

- * A personal history of colorectal polyps or cancer, or inflammatory bowel disease (ulcerative colitis or Crohn's disease).

- * A family history of colorectal cancer.

- * Inherited syndromes, such as familial adenomatous polyposis (FAP) and hereditary non-polyposis colorectal cancer (HNPCC).

Precancerous polyps, which are abnormal growths, can be present in the colon for years before cancer develops. Someone could have polyps or even be in the early stages of colorectal cancer and experience no symptoms — that's why it's so important to have regular screenings.

"Colorectal screening makes it possible for us to find and remove polyps before they become cancerous," said Dr. Milot Faria, general surgeon. "It also allows us to find cancer at the earliest stages, when it's most treatable."

The most effective way to reduce your risk of colorectal cancer is by having regular colorectal cancer screening tests beginning at age 50. Some studies have also shown that you may lower your risk of developing colorectal cancer by:

- * Exercising regularly and maintaining a healthy weight.

- * Eating a diet low in animal fats and high in vegetables, fruits and whole-grain products.

- * Limiting alcohol consumption and avoiding smoking.

If you're 50 or older, don't delay: Talk to your doctor about colorectal screening and how often you should be tested. The best way to protect yourself against colorectal cancer is by catching it in the precancerous stages, and the best way to do that is through screening.

Ever-changing advancements in health care allow us to live longer and improve our overall health. To find out more about your health and Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center, visit www.pbhrc.com.

'Walk for the Animals' date set

LOUISA — Volunteers for the Lawrence County Humane Society are busy preparing for the sixth annual "Walk for the Animals" to be held Saturday, April 27, at Main Street Park in downtown Louisa.

All participants are encouraged to pre-register, but registrations will be accepted on the day of the event beginning at 8:30 a.m. The deadline for pre-registration is April 12. The first 50 walkers to pre-register are guaranteed a walk T-shirt (with a minimum $35 pledge), a special dog pick-up bag dispenser, and a walk packet filled with goodies. Every registered walker will receive a free ticket for the door prize drawings.

"Walk for the Animals" will include demonstrations, contests, children's activities, a silent auction and other events after the walk.

Pledge booklets/registration forms are available at the following locations in Lawrence County: Lawrence County Humane Society Shelter, 820 Isaac Park Road; Home Federal Savings and Loan, 119 N. Main Cross Street; Louisa Community Bank, 4393 Hwy 2565; and Louisa Sporting Goods, 212 Madison Street (beside Dee's Restaurant).

All proceeds benefit the Lawrence County Humane Society Animal Shelter. For more information, contact Sue Schutzberg by e-mail at sue.schutzberg@lawrence.kyschools.us or by cell at 606-571-9641; or Teresa Hillman by e-mail at bellsouth.net or by cell at 606-899-9055.

TECH: (Continued from A9)

replace some of the letters with symbols and numbers. A "to" in your phrase can become a 2, for example. An "S" can be a dollar sign. Mix up some of your letters so they're upper and lower case. Be security conscious There are thousands of strains of viruses, worms and other malware circulating on the Internet. Running up-to-date security software on your computer is a top priority. An unprotected Windows computer can pick up a file-eating, information-stealing bug in under a minute. Macs aren't immune to viruses, either, as last year's outbreak of the Flashback Trojan proved. That monster wreaked havoc on more than 600,000 Macs. Every computer you own should have an antivirus program, a firewall and an anti-spyware program. If you're missing one or more of these, head over to my Security Center to download excellent free security programs. Another huge threat right now is security holes in Java, a programming language Web browsers use to run interactive content. When a vulnerable version of Java is active in a Web browser, visiting a compromised website is all it takes for crooks to sneak malware on to your computer. In most cases, you won't even know your computer is compromised until it's too late. To stay safe, stop using Java - or stay on top of the upgrades and use Java a lot more guardedly. Back up your computer Data loss isn't question of if; it's a question of when.

Your treasured photos, songs, financial information, art projects and business presentations are on there. Can you afford to lose all that? Paying a technician to recover information from a failed hard drive will cost you a bundle. Having an up-to-date backup is so much simpler and easier. Backing up to an external drive is better than nothing. But external hard drives fail, too, and can be stolen. Use a system that backs up to the cloud so it's safe from fire, theft and flood. You also want your back up made automatically. For both, I recommend an advertiser on my national radio show, Carbonite. After my external drive died 8 years ago, I signed up for Carbonite and this was before they were an advertiser. I've been a customer since. Bonus habit: Save early, save often A program crash can happen at any time, and all the work you've put into a file could be lost. That's why it's important to save your work frequently. When you're in the groove, it's hard to break away to click the programs Save icon. Instead, get in the habit of frequently hitting the keyboard shortcut CTRL + S (CMD + S on Macs). That command will save your file in any program, and it only takes a fraction of a second. Copyright 2013, WestStar Multimedia Entertainment. All rights reserved. Catlettsburg, Kentucky: A newly released E-Book about the long and forgotten dangerous and deadly logging business located on the banks of the Big Sandy River at Catlettsburg that lasted for over eighty years, from 1834 to 1914.

THE RIVER'S CURSE Cost $9.99 BY JOHN LEWIS ROE

This story is fiction. The logging business and floating logs down the dangerous and perilous flooding Big Sandy River from the headwaters of both the Tug and Levisa River Forks to Catlettsburg are true. The time setting is 1880. The two main characters, Webb McClanahan and Sam Hurley are partners in the logging business located in Buchanan County, Virginia at Lynn Camp, a small village and logging camp. With fifteen men and three rafts, Webb and Sam depart Lynn Camp in the middle of the winter in 1880, floating their logs to market down the cursed and dangerous flooding Levisa River. They encounter death, murder, and malicious men for one hundred and eighty-five miles to Catlettsburg, Kentucky only to find their log buyer dead, and Webb charged with murder. Sam using malicious and devious acts, discovers Catlettsburg is under siege by a greedy antagonist log buyer, Levi Matney, who wants to control the logging business and is culpable in the murders of log buyers, log owners, and plans to kill Webb. Sam takes on the law and hell breaks loose in Catlettsburg as he uncovers shocking intrigue. Unabridged and raw language jroe300@att.net

McCoy named Paintsville head football coach

SALYERSVILLE — Chester McCoy is the new head football coach at Paintsville High School.

McCoy was named Paintsville's head coach following a seven-year stint as head coach at Magoffin County High School. He takes over for Bill Mike Runyon, who left the gridiron post to focus on his duties as head coach of the Paintsville High School boys' basketball program.

McCoy compiled a 30-47 overall record in seven seasons as Magoffin County head coach. Under McCoy's guidance, Magoffin County reached the playoffs six times.

Following an offseason that included a devastating tornado, Magoffin County, under McCoy's tutelage, concluded the 2012 season 4-7.

The experienced McCoy was a longtime assistant coach at Crosstown Johnson Central High School.

McCoy takes over a Paintsville football team that posted a 2-9 record in 2012. Paintsville defeated non-district rivals Allen Central and Jenkins for its two wins last season.

The Tigers compete in Class A, District 7 along with Raceland, Fairview and Nicholas County.

Paintsville has not yet finalized and released its schedule for the 2013 season.

Magoffin County has started its search for a new head football coach.

MARTIN COUNTY NATIVE Chester McCoy (right) has been named head football coach at Paintsville High School in Johnson County. McCoy comes from the head gridiron position in Magoffin County. On Wednesday, March 13, PHS Principal Chuck McClure introduced Coach McCoy to a few of next year's football team (below). Photos/Shawn Thompson

Bulldogs open season 4-0

LOUISA — The traditional Lawrence County High School baseball program is off to a 4-0 start in the 2013 season.

Lawrence County claimed four wins last week. The Bulldogs already own wins over Raceland, Prestonsburg, Capitol (W.Va.) and Highlands in the young 2013 campaign.

Lawrence County 6, Raceland 1

Lawrence County pulled away to defeat host Raceland 6-1 Tuesday evening, prevailing in a season-opener.

The Bulldogs took benefit from four Raceland errors.

Lawrence County scored one run in both the second and third innings. The Bulldogs, however, never trailed.

Raceland scored its lone run in the third inning.

Lawrence County erupted for four runs in its half of the seventh inning to secure the win.

Senior pitcher Ryan Kingsmore started on the mound for the Bulldogs. Kingsmore pitched two innings, recording four strikeouts and two walks.

Another senior pitcher, Brandon Stevens, claimed the win. Stevens struck out eight of the nine batters he faced.

Kingsmore was 2-for-3 at the plate with a run for the Lawrence County club.

Senior Clark Rice had a double as he went 1-for-4 for the Bulldogs.

Lawrence County 3, Prestonsburg 2

Lawrence County managed to edge 15th Region rival Prestonsburg 3-2 on Thursday in the Hits for Home Invitational at Whitaker Bank Ballpark in Lexington.

The Bulldogs never trailed after jumping out to a 3-0 lead. Lawrence County led 3-0 at the end of the second inning. Bulldog batters combined for eight hits versus Prestonsburg starting pitcher Jarrin Hall.

Lawrence County junior pitcher Joe Wallen worked four innings, registering four strikeouts, walking four and giving up two runs as part of his outing.

Austin Bailey pitched the final three innings and picked up the save.

Wallen and Corey Cline each went 2-for-3 at the plate for 15th Region title contender Lawrence County.

Wallen and senior Skylar Salyer each had a double for the Bulldogs.

Lawrence County 4, Capitol (W.Va.) 0

Lawrence County won its home opener on Friday, blanking visiting Capitol, a team out of Charleston, W. Va., 4-0 at Randy Keeton Field.

Starting pitcher Ryan Kingsmore claimed the win for the Lawrence County baseball team. Kingsmore struck out seven batters in five innings.

Skylar Salyer and Noah Lambert each went 2-for-3 for the Bulldogs. Salyer connected on a double for Lawrence County in the impressive win.

Lawrence County 3, Highlands 2 (8 innings)

Lawrence County claimed its second one-run win in three games on Saturday, edging visiting Highlands 3-2 in eight innings.

With the win over Highlands, Lawrence County moved to 4-0.

Lawrence County played three runs on nine hits.

Ryan Kingsmore led the Bulldogs offensively. Kings-more went 3-for-3 at the plate while scoring two runs and recording two stolen bases.

Adam Cavins went 2-for-3 for the Bulldogs.

After regulation ended with the two teams deadlocked, Josh Cantrell pitched the seventh inning for the Bulldogs. Cantrell claimed the win after Lawrence County scored the winning run on a hit batsmen in the bottom half of the eighth inning.

Williams, Anderson win KABC coaching honors

LEXINGTON — The Kentucky Association of Basketball Coaches (KABC) announced its boys' players and coaches of the year last week.

Pikeville High School head coach Bart Williams, a Johnson Central High School graduate, claimed the 15th Region Coach of the Year honor. Pikeville standout Ethan Rowe was named the 15th Region Player of the Year.

Former Lawrence County head coach Randy Anderson, now at Boyd County, was named the 16th Region Coach of the Year.

All players and coaches of the year from each of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association's 16 regions were recognized late last week during the Boys' Sweet 16.

The annual honors, as voted by the Kentucky Association of Basketball Coaches, follow.

1st: Chase Clark (Marshall County); tie-Coach Chris Guhy (Mayfield) and Coach Brian O'Neill (Carlisle County)

2nd: Deonquez Nance (Trigg County); Coach Jon Newton (Webster County)

3rd: Logan O'Bryan (Daviss County); Coach Patrick Critchlow (Breckinridge County)

4th: Tyler Robertson (Russell County); Coach Casey

Castle, Hale help UPIKE prevail

PIKEVILLE — The University of Pikeville softball team split a doubleheader with St. Marys on Friday, bringing their record for the week to 4-2.

They won the first game 11-0 before falling in the second 9-0.

Pikeville vs. St. Marys: Sisters Kayla and Courtney Morgan each homered in the opener to give the Bears an 11-0 win. Kayla, the winning pitcher, hit a three-run blast in the third, while Courtney ended the game with a grand slam to finish a five-run fifth inning.

Freshman Hollie Hinkle had three singles while driving in two and scoring two. Freshman Heather Maynard singled, scored one and drove in a run as well. Sophomore Kayla Brown, a Flemingsburg native, had a triple among her two hits and scored a run, while Becki Jo Howard singled and scored twice. Sophomore Sarah Kinney singled and scored. Brown is a Fleming County High School graduate.

Kayla Morgan struck out five and allowed five hits in going the distance.

In the second game, only a second-inning single by sophomore Jordyn Hale kept the Bears from going hitless. St. Marys pounded a dozen hits in the 9-0 win.

ered both Kayla Morgan and Hale.

Courtney Patrick pitched all six innings for the Bears. Only two of the six runs were earned.

Pikeville vs. Asbury

Kinney blasted a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth to push UPIKE past Asbury 10-8 in the opener on Tuesday.

Hinkle had four hits, two RBIs and a run scored in the win, while Kayla Morgan went 3-for-4 with two RBIs and a run scored. Kinney's blast was her second hit of the day, while Castle doubled, drove in two and scored.

Brown, Howard and sophomore Brittany Adams had singles.

Morgan went all nine in the circle, striking out nine. Only five of the eight runs she allowed were earned.

Patrick allowed only three runs while throwing a complete game in a 7-0 win in the second game.

Hall selected for Jr. All-Stars tryout

GEORGETOWN — Forty-two boys and 40 girls junior basketball standouts in Kentucky have been selected to tryout for the Kentucky/Indiana Junior All-Stars series.

The WLKY Kentucky/Indiana All-Star Classic added a two-game series for the Bluegrass State's top juniors in 2012. Among the invitees is Johnson Central standout Shane Hall.

The tryout selections were determined by a voting process made available to all high school coaches in Kentucky. Tryouts for the Kentucky Junior All-Stars will be held in conjunction with the senior tryouts Saturday and Sunday, March 23 and 24, at Georgetown College. The Kentucky portion of the junior series will be held Friday, June 7, at a location in Louisville to be announced.
